
POWERS & SONS SELECTED AS CONSTRUCTION MANAGER FOR THE CUISINE OF THE DIASPORA IN CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

Powers & Sons has been selected as the construction manager for the Cuisine of the Diaspora project. The project is located on the South side of Chicago in the historic Bronzeville Community. The project will be the corner stone for an ethnic food district in a “food desert” where there is no location to obtain health food, into an oasis, offering healthier dining options, jobs and a reason to come to the area.

The project will be financed by the Chicago Community Development Commission, a private financial institution and the City of Chicago.

When completed the building will house four (4) restaurants, and a produce market in 17,000 square feet. Each restaurant will showcase distinct African and African American flavors, from traditional southern, vegan, to Jamaican fare.
